BUK's Center for Islamic Civilization and Interfaith Dialogue Holds Conference on Islam and Violence

By Lamara Garba

The Bayero University, Kano Centre for Islamic Civilization and Interfaith Dialogue (CICID) on Monday, 8th January, 2024 hosted its 2nd International Conference with the theme Islam and Violence: Facts and Fallacies, aimed at creating awareness to disassociate the religion of Islam with violence

Declaring the conference open, the Governor of Kano State, Engineer Abba Kabir Yusuf, explained that enemies of Islam were deliberately distorting the facts thereby describing Islam as a religion of violence and terrorism.

The Governor, who was represented by his Deputy, Comrade Aminu Abdulsalam Gwarzo, said Islam is peace and it preaches peaceful coexistence amongst mankind.

He frowned at why some people were hell bent on distorting the facts as it affect Islam, saying no religion on earth that cherishes and promotes peace as Islam, pointing out that the only way to correct the negative narrative is through such conferences frequently.

The Governor, who commended the University and the Centre for organizing the conference now, said it was timely and would go a long way in putting the facts straight. "People need to know the truth about Islam and it is wrong to tag a small group of radicals as an act of the whole Muslim community," the Governor said.

In his address, the Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas, said the theme of the conference was apt, as it came at a better time when Islam is being battered as a religion of violence.

The Vice Chancellor, said as part of the policy of the university, issues such as this would be brought forward for deliberations so that the facts could be unravelled from the fallacies, saying those castigating Islam with negative trends are doing so with an ulterior motive.

He emphasized the importance of such conference, saying Islam is a religion of peace, justice and compassion. He pointed out that misinformation about Islam is perpetrated by those who seek narrow and distorted narrative.

The Vice Chancellor noted that there were misconceptions which have often been misreported in the media particularly from the western axis. He charged scholars to leverage their intellectual capacity to illuminate the true essence of Islam, separating facts from fallacies.

Earlier in his welcome address, the Director of the Centre for Islamic Civilization and Interfaith Dialogue (CICID), Dr. Muhammad Sani Umar Rijiyar Lemo, pointed that the conference was organized to correct the negative and distorted perceptions surrounding Islam in relation to violence.

According to him Islam is a religion of peace and not violence and anybody who preaches violence is not in representing the Muslims and/or practicing the true religion of Islam.

Dr. Rijiyar Lemo pointed out that the Holy Prophet Muhammad SAW had never promoted violence in all His teachings, saying that the meaning of Islam is peace and therefore, it is distortion of fact for someone to link Islam with violence.

The conference, which was the 2nd in the series, brought together scholars, religious leaders and policy makers from around the world. Over 100 papers were presented by scholars of diverse origin. It ended with a good note, stressing Islam as a peaceful and well-encompassing religion.

Keynote speaker, Dr. Seydou Madibaba Sylla, the Rector of Sahel University, Mali, who is also the President of African Council of Ulama, said Islam simply means peace in which it guarantees the protection of lives and property, thus making it a religion of peace and tranquility.

He described it as a campaign of calumny for anyone to link Islam with violence as no religion that talked seriously against injustice and degradation of humanity like Islam.

Also in his paper presentation, the Deputy Secretary General of the Supreme Council for Islamic Affairs and also the Vice Chancellor of Al-Istiqama University, Sumaila, Professor Salisu Shehu, said statistics of all the act of terrorism had shown that none Muslim groups have contributed more than 90 percent of all the atrocities against peace in the world.

He noted that the worst act of terrorism was the occupation of Palestinian land and continued killings of children and women by the Isra'eli government with support from America and its allies, the KKK group and other militant Christian groups across the world, saying Islam was never and will never be a threat to peace.

In his paper, the Imam of Al-Furqan Mosque, Dr Bashir Aliyu Umar, described those associating Islam with violence as enemies of religion. Quoting from verses of the Holy Qur'an and the teaching of the Holy Prophet Muhammad SAW, he debunked all the insinuations linking the religion with violence.

During the event, certificates of award were presented to distinguished dignitaries including the Vice Chancellor of Bayero University Kano, Prof. Sagir Adamu Abbas, the Rector of Sahel University, Dr. Seydou Madibaba Sylla, the Executive Secretary of National Universities Commission, Prof. Abubakar A. Rasheed, the Executive Governor of Kano State, Engr. Abba Kabir Yusuf, the Executive Governor of Jigawa State, Dr. Umar Namadi among others.

BUK Student Wins Global Award ...Gets $14,000 Research Grant

By Nura Garba

A PhD student of Centre for Dryland Agriculture (CDA), Rehema Mrutu has won a global award for contributing to a sustainable future and will receive $14,000 research grant.

Rehema Mrutu is a Tanzanian national pursuing a PhD in Natural Resource Management and Climate Change at the Centre of Dryland Agriculture at Bayero University Kano, Nigeria with research placement at Worcester Polytechnic Institute in United States of America (USA).

She was competitively selected as a winning candidate at the Climate, Food and Farming Global Research Alliance Development (CLIFF-GRADS) award announced at the COP28 in Dubai.

CLIFF-GRADS is a joint initiative of the Mitigate+; Research for Low Emissions Food Systems of the CGIAR and the Global Research Alliance on Agricultural Greenhouse Gases (GRA).

The award aims to advance one of the research objectives on developing cheap and efficient means to divert the key substrate &quot;hydrogen&quot; in methane production to acetic acid. These data are urgently needed for researchers to decide on which microorganisms in the rumen needs manipulation to both develop long term methane mitigations measures and ensure food security.

The award comes with a grant of USD 14,000 for a 6 months research stay at The University of Connecticut, Department of Molecular and Cell Biology in USA.

Rehema's research focus at the CDA is to help cows emit less greenhouse gases, (methane) while increasing meat and milk production. She is currently developing a CRISPR engineered strain of methane producing organism (methanogen) that subverts methane production for acetic acid generation, which is a by-product that can be used by the cow to improve meat and milk production.

Part of her research work is also to understand what and how many species of methanogens actually reside within the rumen. This is extremely useful in designing microbial based animal breeding mitigation strategies.

Rehema Mrutu seeks to achieve at the global arena with regard to climate sustainability and hopes to develop the spirit of collegiality and collaborations with scientist across disciplines.

Last year, Rehema was nominated by the Centre for Dryland Agriculture (CDA, Nigeria) to participate at a high-level meeting of African Centre of Excellence (ACE) at the World Bank headquarters, USA.

She interacted with the World Bank President, David Malpass and talked about her research to a wider audience. This conversation attracted collaborators including Dr. Natalie Farny whom she currently works together at the gene engineering lab, Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI).

KHAIRUN University Takes Off in February, 2024, Says VC Abdulrashid Garba ...Commends Former ES, NUC

By Lamara Garba

Khalifa Isiyaku Rabi'u University of Nigeria (KHAIRUN), Kano is to commence academic activities on February 2024, the Vice Chancellor of the University, Professor Abdulrashid Garba, has disclosed.

He spoke on Thursday, 11th January, 2024 when he led the Principal Officers and Management staff on a thank you visit to the former Executive Secretary of the National Universities Commission (NUC), Professor Abubakar Adamu Rasheed in his office.

He disclosed that the university will be commencing academic activities with three Faculties and twelve programmes. The Faculties are Allied Health Sciences,

The VC and the Management staff of KHAIRUN in a group photograph with former ES, NUC, Prof. Abubakar A. Rasheed

Engineering and Science & Computing with programmes such as Bachelor of Nursing Science, Medical Laboratory, Radiography, Engineering, Mechatronics as well as Bachelor of Computer Science among others.

Professor Abdulrashid Garba said the visit was informed by the desire of the management of KHAIRUN University to express its gratitude for the role the former NUC Boss played in the conceptualization up to the level of issuance of operational certificate.

The Vice Chancellor noted that KHAIRUN was the brain child of the former NUC Boss right from the time when he was Vice Chancellor of BUK, explaining that, we owed a duty to come here and inform him about the progress made and also intimate him about the preparation for the takeoff.

“Sir, as we are about to take off for our academic activities, we feel it is only logical to come and brief you on the progress as our mentor and leader. Insha Allah, the Senate of the University would be inaugurated on the 29th of January, 2024 while academic activities will commence on 2nd of February, 2024,” he revealed.

The Vice Chancellor thanked Professor Rasheed for all his support towards the establishment of KHAIRUN University.

Responding, the former Executive Secretary of National Universities Commission, Professor Abubakar Adamu Rasheed, said he was overwhelmed by the visit and prayed for the progress and development of the young university.

Professor Rasheed a one-time Vice Chancellor of Bayero University, Kano said he was happy that KHAIRUN University is finally starting academic activities. He promised to support the university to succeed, advising that as a way of making headway, the Management should ensure discipline, standards and quality as key elements in all its activities.

The former NUC Boss said institutions can only prosper and progress if they adopt system that can ensure quality and standards in their dealings, explaining that “my hope is to see KHAIRUN compete with any of the world's renowned institutions of learning such as Oxford, Cambridge, Al-Azhar, BUK among others.

He also reminded them that universities are capital intensive which require huge investment even as it was not a money making ventures, therefore, they should zero their minds on getting quick returns in this project, so as to succeed.

He gave an insight as to how the University came to being, recalling his discussion with the late Khalifa Isiyaka Rabi'u when he first mooted the idea of establishing the university, where he rejected naming it after his name but preferred to be called Al-Tanzeel University.

Professor Rasheed commended the commitment of the founder of the University, Alhaji Abdulsamad Isiyaku Rabi'u and charged him not to relent in that direction, saying he has no doubt that KHAIRUN will succeed.

FRSC, Kano Command Plans to Engage BUK Staff into Special Marshal - Says Commandant I.S. Abubakar

By Suleiman Salihu

The Kano State Sector of the Federal Road Safety Commission is to partner with Bayero University, Kano on research and staff training as part of its drive to ensure capacity building of its personnel, the Sector Commander Ibrahim S. Abubakar disclosed this on Tuesday 9th January, 2024 when he led a team of the Commission on a courtesy visit to the Vice-Chancellor.

Speaking, Commander Abubakar said that “the visit was like a son coming to greet his parents, being a former student of Bayero University, Kano. He further expressed the purpose of the visit was to foster strong tie between the University and FRSC, Kano Command.

He explained some of the services offered to the community which included awareness on the use of traffic rules and regulations, sensitization training to drivers, issuance of drivers' license, tracking of stolen vehicles, among others.

According to him some of the success recorded was training large number of staff at the Nigeria Police Force (NPF), Kano State Government, where drivers were trained on traffic rules and regulations. He said that he seized the opportunity to extend the gesture to Bayero University, Kano considering its importance in serving the nation.

The Commander, further unveiled to the University Management that BUK staff willing to participate in the voluntary road safety work (Special Marshal) would be engaged in order to give their quota of contribution towards ensuring sanity within our roads.

Responding, the Vice-Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas commended the effort of the Federal Road Safety Commission (FRSC) for its enormous contributions towards developing positive attitude on the drivers within the country.

According to him the creation of the Commission has been a blessing to the Nigerian people, pointing out that, but for the Commission the level of road traffic accidents on Nigerian highways would have been a catastrophe.

Prof. Abbas assured the visiting team that the University was willing and always ready to partner with the Commission in the area of researches, short-term courses, part-time programmes or any other course relevant to the policy of the Commission and many more.

While reaffirming the University's commitment of serving the community, the Vice-Chancellor pointed out that the University was always open for the Commission to send their staff and children for special consideration on admission exercise provided that they meet all necessary requirements.

He then thanked the team for the kind gesture put to the University and assured the team that after receiving the guidelines and modalities of the special marshal programme, the University would notify the staff willing to participate to be fully engaged in the voluntary service.

Present during the visit were University Bursar, Malam Rabi Dauda; Acting Registrar, Hajiya Amina Umar Abdullahi; Director VC's Office, Malam Ahmad Shariff; Deputy Registrars Public Affairs and VC's Office; Malam Lamara Garba and Haruna Aliyu, respectively.

Highlights of the visit were presentation of plaque and University's customized souvenirs to the visitors and a group photograph.

IIIBF Holds 3-Day Professional Certificate Programme on Islamic Banking and Finance

By Fausat A. Opayemi

International Institute of Islamic Banking and Finance (IIIBF), Bayero University, Kano organized a three day programme on Professional Certificate in Islamic Banking and Finance from Thursday 11th January - 13th January at the Institute's Conference Room.

The participants were drawn from the Banking and Financial institutions including the Central Bank of Nigeria, Jaiz Bank, NEXIM and some other financial regulatory organizations.

The Director of the Institute, Prof. Usman Muhammad Shu'aib, in his opening remarks, welcomed all the participants and commended the University Management for its support.

He said the program was a professional one because it would run a module packaged to deal on Islamic Banking and Finance.

According to him alternative banking is a global trend now because the world had recently experienced economic down-turn as a result of interest based economic system and subscribers thought of the need to have alternative banking system such as Islamic Banking.

According to Professor Usman Shu'aib, Islamic Banking is based on non-interest because interest which is otherwise known as riba, which is detested by shari'a and that the Qur'an said that whoever eats interest is like declaring war against Allah SWT.

He pointed out that Islamic finance has components such as Islamic Investment Vehicles where subscribers will have rejuvenated activities that will generate profit. He said another aspect is takaful which is also known as Islamic insurance which will enable people to come together to help each other in the act of piety and righteousness.

Prof. Usman further explained that Sukuk is another aspect which is an Islamic Capital market run on bonds, Treasury bills and other bonds of the Federal Government where people will collectively subscribe to a fund which will be incorporated as special purpose vehicle, in which properties either from the Federal Government, State Government or even private individuals will be taken over and subscribers will purchase the property for certain period of time and the owner will be given rent which will be leased back to the owner.

The Vice Chancellor, Prof. Sagir Adamu Abbas in his address welcomed participants and congratulated the Institute as one of the best of its kind in the whole of West Africa.

The University Librarian, Dr. Kabiru Dahiru Abbas, who represented the Vice Chancellor, said Islamic finance has become a global trend which is timely and its importance cannot be over emphasized and as a result a lot of people are participating actively in Islamic Banking practices.

The Director, Directorate of Research, Innovation and Partnership (DRIP), Prof Ahmad Rufai Ibrahim in his goodwill message, said BUK is one of the leading Universities in Nigeria based on recent Times Higher Education (THE) ranking as the 5th best University in Nigeria. He said the feat was achieved not by chance but as a result of collective efforts of the University management, staff and students.

Participants in a group photograph

He disclosed that BUK has three centers of excellence, Centre for Dryland Agriculture (CDA) and Africa Center of Excellence in Population, Health and Policy (ACEPHAP) being funded by the World Bank and Africa Center of Excellence on Renewable Energy funded by TETFund.

He said IIIBF is an Institute that has the mandate to award degrees and certificates with the hope that the training would achieve its intended learning outcome from resource persons that were carefully selected.

The Deputy Director, Training and Linkages, Dr. Muhammad Abdullahi Ibrahim, in his vote of thanks, expressed gratitude to the University management for its enormous support and also thanked the participants whom he said are versed and experienced.
